LOCAL AUTHORITY ACCOUNTS: A SUMMARY OF YOUR RIGHTS

Please note that this summary applies to all relevant smaller authorities, including local councils, internal drainage boards and 'other' smaller authorities.

The basic position

The Local Audit and Accountability Act 2014 (the Act) governs the work of auditors appointed to smaller authorities. This summary explains the provisions contained in Sections 26 and 27 of the Act. The Act and the Accounts and Audit Regulations 2015 also cover the duties, responsibilities and rights of smaller authorities, other organisations and the public concerning the accounts being audited.

As a local elector, or an interested person, you have certain legal rights in respect of the accounting records of smaller authorities. As an interested person you can inspect accounting records and related documents. If you are a local government elector for the area to which the accounts relate you can also ask questions about the accounts and object to them. You do not have to pay directly for exercising your rights. However, any resulting costs incurred by the smaller authority form part of its running costs. Therefore, indirectly, local residents pay for the cost of you exercising your rights through their council tax.

The right to inspect the accounting records

Any interested person can inspect the accounting records, which includes but is not limited to local electors. You can inspect the accounting records for the financial year to which the audit relates and all books, deeds, contracts, bills, vouchers, receipts and other documents relating to those records. You can copy all, or part, of these records or documents. Your inspection must be about the accounts, or relate to an item in the accounts. You cannot, for example, inspect or copy documents unrelated to the accounts, or that include personal information (Section 26(6) - (10)) of the Act explains what is meant by personal information). You cannot inspect information which is protected by commercial confidentiality. This is information which would prejudice commercial confidentiality if it was released to the public and there is not, set against this, a very strong reason in the public interest why it should nevertheless be disclosed.

When smaller authorities have finished preparing accounts for the financial year and approved them, they must publish them (including on a website). There must be a 30 working day period, called the 'period for the exercise of public rights', during which you can exercise your statutory right to inspect the accounting records. Smaller authorities must tell the public, including advertising this on their website, that the accounting records and related documents are available to inspect. By arrangement you will then have 30 working days to inspect and make copies of the accounting records. You may have to pay a copying charge. The 30 working day period must include a common period of inspection during which all smaller authorities' accounting records are available to inspect. This will be 3-14 July 2023 for 2022-23 accounts. The advertisement must set out the dates of the period for the exercise of public rights, how you can communicate to the smaller authority that you wish to inspect the accounting records and related documents, the name and address of the auditor, and the relevant legislation that governs the inspection of accounts and objections.

The right to ask the auditor questions about the accounting records

You should first ask your smaller authority about the accounting records, since they hold all the details. If you are a local elector, your right to ask questions of the external auditor is enshrined in law. However, while the auditor will answer your questions where possible, they are not always obliged to do so. For example, the question might be better answered by another organisation, require investigation beyond the auditor's remit, or involve disproportionate cost (which is borne by the local taxpayer). Give your smaller authority the opportunity first to explain anything in the accounting records that you are unsure about. If you are not satisfied with their explanation, you can question the external auditor about the accounting records.

The law limits the time available for you formally to ask questions. This must be done in the period for the exercise of public rights, so let the external auditor know your concern as soon as possible. The advertisement or notice that tells you the accounting records are available to inspect will also give the period for the exercise of public rights during which you may ask the auditor questions, which here means formally asking questions under the Act. You can ask someone to represent you when asking the external auditor questions.

Before you ask the external auditor any questions, inspect the accounting records fully, so you know what they contain. Please remember that you cannot formally ask questions, under the Act, after the end of the period for the exercise of public rights. You may ask your smaller authority other questions about their accounts for any year, at any time. But these are not questions under the Act.

You can ask the external auditor questions about an item in the accounting records for the financial year being audited. However, your right to ask the external auditor questions is limited. The external auditor can only answer 'what' questions, not 'why' questions. The external auditor cannot answer questions about policies, finances, procedures or anything else unless it is directly relevant to an item in the accounting records. Remember that your questions must always be about facts, not opinions. To avoid misunderstanding, we recommend that you always put your questions in writing.

The right to make objections at audit

You have inspected the accounting records and asked your questions of the smaller authority. Now you may wish to object to the accounts on the basis that an item in them is in your view unlawful or there are matters of wider concern arising from the smaller authority's finances. A local government elector can ask the external auditor to apply to the High Court for a declaration that an item of account is unlawful, or to issue a report on matters which are in the public interest. You must tell the external auditor which specific item in the accounts you object to and why you think the item is unlawful, or why you think that a public interest report should be made about it. You must provide the external auditor with the evidence you have to support your objection. Disagreeing with income or spending does not make it unlawful. To object to the accounts you must write to the external auditor stating you want to make an objection, including the information and evidence below and you must send a copy to the smaller authority. The notice must include:

- confirmation that you are an elector in the smaller authority's area;
- why you are objecting to the accounts and the facts on which you rely;
- details of any item in the accounts that you think is unlawful; and
- details of any matter about which you think the external auditor should make a public interest report.

Other than it must be in writing, there is no set format for objecting. You can only ask the external auditor to act within the powers available under the Local Audit and Accountability Act 2014.

A final word

You may not use this 'right to object' to make a personal complaint or claim against your smaller authority. You should take such complaints to your local Citizens' Advice Bureau, local Law Centre or to your solicitor. Smaller authorities, and so local taxpayers, meet the costs of dealing with questions and objections. In deciding whether to take your objection forward, one of a series of factors the auditor must take into account is the cost that will be involved, they will only continue with the objection if it is in the public interest to do so. They may also decide not to consider an objection if they think that it is frivolous or vexatious, or if it repeats an objection already considered. If you appeal to the courts against an auditor's decision not to apply to the courts for a declaration that an item of account is unlawful, you will have to pay for the action yourself.

For more detailed guidance on public rights and the special powers of auditors, copies of the publication Local authority accounts: A guide to your rights are available from the NAO website.

If you wish to contact your authority's appointed external auditor please write to the address in paragraph 4 of the Notice of Public Rights and Publication of Unaudited Annual Governance & Accountability Return.

Bank Transfers

Transfers are similar to ordinary transactions, but relate wholly to movements of money within the Council, rather than receipts or payments by the Council. These are easy to forget, but are essential to providing a comprehensive account of the Council's monetary position.

Response to auditor report

The migration to Microsoft 365 so far has been completed in a like-for-like scenario, with the data structure matching what was already in place and being used by the officers. The IT working party has suggested a new structure for data moving forward, as recommended by a 3rd party IT provider that specialises in working with parish councils. Throughout designing the new structure, the officers have been consulted more than once to take an active role in the design; however, they have not given much input when asked and have not raised any issues. The audit report is the first instance of being informed of any issue with the proposed structure.

The IT working party disagrees with the recommended action of each officer having a single email account as there are several scenarios in which it would not be appropriate for this to be the case as it would invite unnecessary risk, listed below. Having separate accounts between the individual employee and the role is an appropriate security control.

- Should the owner of a single role-based email address leave the council, a new officer taking over the role would inherit all historic email. This could include information such as, but not limited to;
 - · Payslips and other personal financial information
 - Confidential personal matters such as sickness/bereavement/caring responsibilities etc
 - For the Clerk, confidential matters relating to other employees of the council where the Clerk is the manager
- Should the owner of a single role-based email address need to delegate access to the mailbox during periods of leave or extended period of the owner being unable to perform their duties, they would gain access to the information detailed above.
- The role-based email accounts are currently shared across two/three people. In reference to a guide model used within information security sector, the CIA triad, Confidentiality, Integrity and Availability. This provides no accountability for changes made to documents, emails sent or changes made within the Microsoft

- 365 platform etc. impacting 2 of 3 core components, Confidentiality and Integrity.
- Should members of the council need to raise confidential issues, with the nature of the accounts being shared, this becomes very difficult. The person whom the issue being raised about would then be made aware of the issue before formal investigation, when not appropriate, and could have the ability to tamper with the report, compromising non-repudiation.

The recommendation above suggests that the officers do not control the data, this however, is incorrect. The officers have the same access permissions to all migrated data, as they did before. The officers were also advised before, during and after regarding the migration.

The IT Admin account has ultimate ownership of the migration, but the intention of the migration has always been to set up the accounts in the name of the council in a way that the completed migration can be handed over to the previously agreed 3rd party IT company.

The officers were invited to the initial meeting with the 3rd party IT company, and the agreed architecture scoping call, as approved by council. Officers were invited to these meetings but did not attend. A full report was provided for the officers and full council.

The full council has been kept informed throughout, with all major decisions taken by them. For example, the recent EGM where the training for councillors was recommended but not approved by the Council.

Nothing has currently been decided regarding future use and the intention was to bring a recommendation to the council at the meeting to be held on 20th June. The recommendation has however now been placed on hold due to this "matter arising" and the "recommended action" noted in the internal auditor's report.

Decision required

The training and support structure has already been agreed at Council.

The IT working party does not hold any form of control over the work completed to date nor will it moving forwards – it has all been set up on behalf of Oakley and Deane Parish Council.

The IT working party can continue to work in the same way that it has previously, which it believes is an open and transparent way, or it can complete a handover to an IT company if requested.

As stated, nothing has been done that has not been agreed at full council.

Hello,

As we discussed earlier, I strongly believe the IT Working Group should have a right of reply regarding the matters arising in the auditor report. The document is factually incorrect where it suggests that the WG operated without approval. A matter arising should be factually correct. I strongly believe the council should correct the record in that regard, regardless of what it chooses to do with the recommendations.

Please can these links (or this email) be included in the public agenda pack alongside the IT Working Group response to the auditor report. They provide important background information around accounts management for any councillor or member of the public reading the reports.

In addition to everything researched and reported, for a specific real world example of why individual user accounts should be used, refer to the issues with multiple users and one role. RFO leaving and only having a role based email account, which then becomes the incorrect role address for a contractor. This is a similar issue we will have soon with a new DC once hired. Using names also treats employees as people rather than their job title, something I believe should be a core tenant of Civility and Respect if it isn't already.

If that approach is being advised for a Parish Council, it certainly isn't compliant with any information security guidance I'm aware of.

All the best,

Alex

Subject: RE: Internal Audit Report for Oakley and Deane Parish Council

Importance: High

Hi Alex

Ahead of tonight's meeting I just wanted to reassure you that I have included your formal response to the auditor in the agenda pack, and it will be included in the minutes (public minutes) of the report.

As Clerk I need to formally respond to your report to the auditor as it will be going on the public record, ahead of the meeting tonight and I apologise in advance for the notice on this response.

In your ITWG response to the IA, you stated the following:

The IT working party has suggested a new structure for data moving forward, as recommended by a 3rd party IT provider that specialises in working with parish councils. Throughout designing the new structure, the officers have been consulted more than once to take an active role in the design; however, they have not given much input when asked and have not raised any issues. The audit report is the first instance of being informed of any issue with the proposed structure.'

Believe this is incorrect as both Officers have met and discussed casually the new structure and giving feedback relating to this on a number of occasions. Both Connor and you met at my house for a ITWG meeting, where we discussed options for the proposal, and I fed back my thoughts. A draft migration structure was sent to the Clerk and Deputy Clerk on 17th May, the Clerk and Deputy Clerk reviewed the document together and the Deputy Clerk filled in some information. We then met on the 22nd May, with Connor on Zoom to review the document. Changes were made to the document as we discussed different options and preferred ways of working. (Migration doc: Migration Structure.xlsx).

During the meeting on the 22nd May we felt, as Officers, there was no need or want for individual sign in's as it's the 'role' not the 'individual' and all data must remain in one place. You explained your reason behind it and we agreed to the structure as it now stands with individual accounts as per the bullet points in your response – however both Helen and I did make it clear in that meeting that we would not be using our individual email accounts, as you have listed in the response to the auditor. They are only a means to login.

'The officers were invited to the initial meeting with the 3rd party IT company, and the agreed architecture scoping call, as approved by council. Officers were invited to these meetings but did not attend. A full report was provided for the officers and full council.'

This is correct we did not attend these meetings as we were either unavailable, or as discussed with you at the time, it is simply not our field of expertise therefore we were happy for you (and Conner when required) to undertake these meetings as you work in the IT sector. The reports you gave were detailed, and much appreciated by both Officers and Council members

It is clear both you and Conner have put an enormous amount of continued work into this project to benefit the Council, and all of the above was explained to the IA during her visit on the 10th June '24, including how the Officers were involved with the data structure. However, as our ITWG meeting reports were not found as part of the legal minutes the IA had to make her report and recommendation to Council as so. As part of our learning from the audit we can ensure reports are included moving forward.

As always, happy to meet and discuss all this.

Best regards

Nicola

Subject: Bus shelter near Avon Road.

Hi, I have looked at the bus shelter near to Avon Road. One of the perspex panels has begun to be pushed out of its frame.

The top mounting rail has broken.

I can put the existing perspex into its existing frame.

I will make a new top mounting rail and fix this in place to prevent further vandalism.

Then I can pressure wash the whole shelter to make it respectable again.
